Thought for the Month: Bill

Recently I said goodbye to a good friend. Over these past years we have been through so much together...we have been in touch virtually every day.

There were a few times when my friend infuriated me and would not co-operate with my plans, but perhaps part of the fault was mine in not communicating my wishes properly. However, for the vast majority of our time together we have worked in harmony and life has been good.

It's true that nothing lasts forever and in fairness my current friend has lasted longer than any friendship of this nature would have been expected...but technology moves on so quickly and the time had come to say goodbye and move on to a new friend who is much more in tune with the world today.

The new TV box arrived. I must confess that I approached this change with mixed feelings, because although I know that I couldn't really stay where I am, technologically speaking, there was a feeling of apprehension because in these past years I have become comfortable with what I had.

If I am honest though this feeling I have is not confined to replacing technology. In life we generally like to be comfortable...even when things aren't perfect we still prefer the 'devil we know'.

This feeling is so often prevalent in church too, although the 'devil we know' maybe shouldn't be the phrase used. We like to stay with what we are familiar...we like to remain where we are comfortable, but the world moves on and it is important that while we take great care not to change the message we present, we must change the methods we use.

To listen to Christians speak you would think that newness and change were not part of the Christian life, and yet the Bible paints a very different picture.

We have new offerings, new garments, new songs, new paths, a new covenant, a new commandment, new things to be done, new names, a new heart, new spirit, we are to be new creations, there will be a new heaven and new earth, and the words at the end of Revelation encapsulate this line of thinking... "Behold I make all things new".

Lawview Christian Fellowship is moving on and continuing with the exciting ministry God has given to us through fellowship, study, prayer and radio outreach. We have a new name Fife Fellowship Online but the ministry remains the same, and for that we simply give thanks.

PRAYER

"Rejoice in hope, be patient in tribulation, be constant in prayer".

Romans 12:12

Since Issue 01 on 21st March 2020 we have prayed for many people and situations. As we reach the end of this publication let's reflect on the many matters and situations we have prayed for and give thanks for the many answers to prayer.

Time moves on and circumstances change but we give thanks that we can continue in prayer for people, for situations and for nations and in time give thanks for the answer which will be given to us.

Lawview Christian Fellowship

becomes...

Fife Fellowship Online

www.fife-fellowship-online.com

Early in 2018 Lawview Christian Fellowship came into being and met each week in the Simpson Institute until lockdown in March 2020.

During lockdown the fellowship continued to meet on zoom for our Monday morning coffee mornings, our Tuesday evening times of study and prayer and our monthly communion services.

We also kept together through our weekly Newsletter and radio programme, "Here I am to Worship".

Times Change

As life has returned to something close to normal the Lawview group have returned to church and worship in various churches each Sunday.

We are not giving up the good things we have and continue with our Monday morning coffee mornings - three weeks on zoom and one in person - and our Tuesday evening Bible studies on zoom led by Frank and Bill.

The monthly communion service will end as we are all sharing in celebrating the Lord's Supper in various churches each week and this was only to meet a need during lockdown.

Our monthly Newsletter will continue but in a slightly different form and will be a monthly News Update with details of the forthcoming events.

Our new website reflects the change and is now

www.fife-fellowship-online.com

and we can be found on Facebook on
"Here I Am To Worship".

We hope you will stay with us.

Coffee Morning: Monday 11.00 AM

Our next Zoom coffee morning takes place in person in a local eatery on Monday 5th September at 10.30am.

Hope to see you then.

Please contact Christine or Bill for details.

In the light of the changes taking place at this time we are updating our mailing lists for the new News Update and those who receive words for the hymns and reflection and links to our radio programme.

If you would like to add anyone or be removed from any of these lists please contact Bill and let him know.
